Abstract

If every person looks to others then the new born baby will be more versatile. If a man looks at all the women near to him then his feelings about all the women cause the good growth of his new born children. It is also true for females. Actually sexual thinking helps and creates more rigid children.

Keywords: generation; newborn; sperm

Only the thinking helps here not the activity of sex. Thinking about beauty helps to improve our next generation. When we are active in love, our thinking becomes good and that helps the sperm to think and that is because thinking is the wave which can pass from us to our small parts. It is true for females also. I hope that, for this free sex countries are more advance.

The thinking of a newborn baby depends on the different looks of its mother and father. If the mother looks every man and likes to fall in love with many, then her children will be more versatile than the children of other women who restrict their looks. Actually, if someone looks at others and thinks for love then her thinking becomes more rigid and it helps the thinking of a small baby later as thinking acts like a wave. People who had many relationships had many more chances to give a good or bad child than others. It is true for men and women. So, at first if you want to give birth to good ones then always see the beautiful ones and think about them. Actually, sperm also thinks as you think, in the case of male and also true for females. So, my opinion is do not close your views. If you see everything and think, then your next generation will be good. If a woman thinks about many good men and likes many of them then after marriage when she gives birth to a new child, the child will be more versatile and his brain activities will be like her mother as we know from genetic cause but the thinking of beauty of the woman helps good act in relationship with a man. In my point of view the thinking of beauty can change the thinking of sperm for males and also it happens for females. Because the thinking is transferred like a wave.

So, I think the countries where free sex is allowed and where all people can mix freely have more probability of giving birth to a versatile advanced child than the countries where freeness is restricted. Due to change of thinking from time to time we can give a new type of thinking to our sperm from time to time. It is true for females also. Actually, the rigidity of the mind happens for our thinking and that comes from the parents it is not totally genetic. It can be changed. So, for this reason many emperors liked to marry many women and produced many children and they wanted a great child. The emperor is not only but most of us still believe to marry more than one and my thinking is that our thinking about sex helps us to change the mind of our new born babies and it is an always changing process not totally genetic.
